Silent Terminator is a lightweight and user-friendly software utility whose main purpose consists of blocking specific processes from running on your PC, allowing you to decide which can function or not at all time, by creating and exporting the generated lists. Clean and well-structured appearance

Subsequent to a fairly brief installation process, with no particularly noteworthy events, the application retreats automatically to the notification area, where you can access it just by clicking on its icon. The system tray menu enables you to open Silent Terminator's main window, but also adjust its functioning preferences from the 'Options' submenu or modify the hotkeys. Swiftly create blocked processes lists and use them with just a few clicks For starters, you need to press on the 'Refresh Process' button, so the program can determine and enumerate all of the currently running items. You can scroll down and view the detected entries, having the possibility to disable the ones that look out of place just by double-clicking them, which will automatically send them to the 'Blocked List'. At the same time, you can use the 'Add External' feature to browse through your PC locate the EXE file you wish to prevent from running, then load it into Silent Terminator. Moreover, the utility features keyboard shortcuts by means of which you can 'Pause / Resume' the blocking operation, as well as 'Exit'. The list of disabled processes can be exported to an INI file, enabling you to import it on a different occasion and start working with it immediately, without having to waste time to reconfigure preferences every time you need to use it. A useful process blocker To summarize, Silent Terminator is a handy and reliable application that can successfully assist you in determining which processes can or cannot run on your computer, thus managing the consumption of resources as well as preventing unwanted programs from being executed. Do you want your website to load at lightning speed? It's time to start optimizing it! Let's face it: we all know that optimization is a necessary step in any website's early phases. Back in the good old days, the only things that mattered were visitors, clicks, and pageviews. The funny thing is that "conversions" usually follow along at a very slow pace. We've all been there, right? We have to find out why this site is slow, or else we have 09e8f5149f
